

Each peripheral is fully asynchronous from the 65C02 CPU. This means the CPU does not need to “check in” with either the display or keyboard on any regular basis. This prevents needing to use interrupts to handle each display draw or key press until it is convenient.

If keys in this group have been pressed, Stage 2 puts the group number in the FIFO.

